

Galway, Ireland

Population

city: 76,778

Land area

53 km²

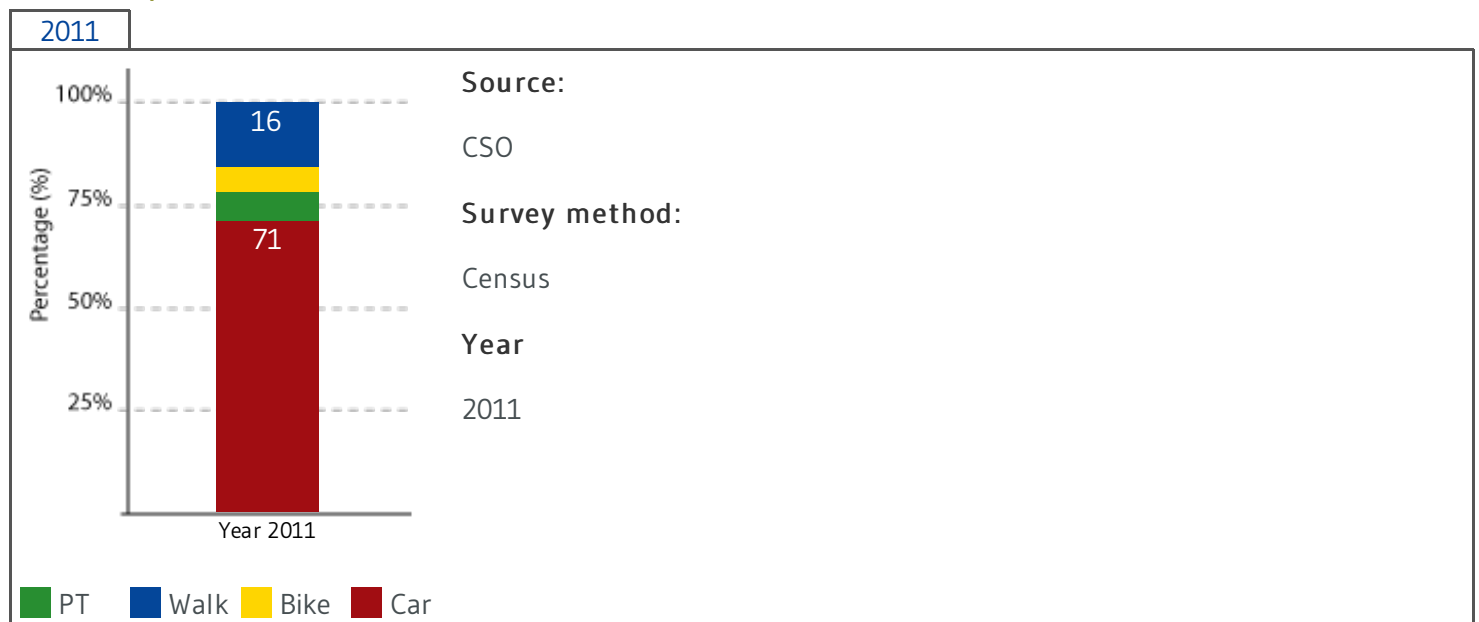

Population density

1437 inhabitants/km²

Galway is located in the Western district of Ireland and is the fourth largest city in the republic and it's population continues to grow at a significant rate. It is a popular tourist attraction being the principle urban area in the scenic West of Ireland.

The city is served by a motorway and road network and has an intercity railway station. It has a seaport which it plans to expand. Buses are the main mode of public transport within the city. Later this year the city will introduce a citywide bike hire scheme.

Modal Split

Contact person for Sustainable Urban Mobility Planning

Caroline Phelan

Email: caroline.phelan@galwaycity.ie

City website: <http://www.galwaycity.ie>

Status of the Sustainable Urban Mobility Plan

Interested in SUMP